Already when accessing those sub-sites in which the map of Google Maps is integrated, information on your website use (such as, e.g., your IP address) is transferred to the Google server in the USA and stored there. This takes place independent of the fact whether Google provides a user account via which you are logged in or whether a user account does not exist. In case you are logged in at Google, your data is assigned directly to your account. If you do not want the assignment with your profile at Google, you will have to log out before activation of the button. Google stores your data (even for users not logged-in) possibly as user profiles and analyzes them. The collection, storage and analysis are effected in accordance with Art. 6, paragraph 1 lit.(f) DSGVO based on Google's legitimate interests in the display of personalized advertising, market research and/or the need-based design of Google websites. You have a right of objection to the creation of these user profiles, for the exercise of which you have to contact Google.

Google Ireland Limited is certified for the US-European "Privacy Shield" data protection agreement which ensures the observation of the data protection level applicable in the EU.

In case you do not agree with the future transfer of your data to Google in connection with the use of Google Maps, it is also possible to deactivate the web service by Google Maps completely by switching off the JavaScript application in your browser. Google Maps and thus the map display on this internet site as well cannot be used then.

The Google terms of use are shown at www.google.de/intl/de/policies/terms/regional.html, the additional terms of use for Google Maps can be found at https://www.google.com/intl/de_US/help/terms_maps.html.
